What if remote viewing never disappeared?

In this fascinating conversation, Dr. Michael Salla speaks with Tony Rodrigues about his experiences in remote viewing programs, secret space operations, psychic intelligence gathering, and the hidden world of consciousness research.

Tony shares how he was introduced to remote viewing as a child and explains how those experiences shaped his work today. The discussion explores remote influencing, corporate use of psychic intelligence, underground facilities, alleged extraterrestrial technologies, hidden bases, and the future role of human consciousness in a rapidly changing world.

They also discuss remote viewing investigations involving Green Mountain, underground spacecraft, psychic espionage programs, AI, and the possibility of future contact with extraterrestrial civilizations.

Whether you are curious about remote viewing, secret space programs, consciousness research, or exopolitics, this interview offers a thought-provoking look into one of the most controversial subjects of our time.

DR. SALLA: Tony Rodriguez was forcibly taken into a secret space program when only 10 years old. He spent 13 years serving on a German space freighter based on the Ceres colony and prior to that he was trained as a remote viewer where he was used in drug operations and today he's conducting his own remote viewing training for people and he is helping get information about all sorts of topics related to investment and some of the secret happenings happening in different underground bases.

DR. SALLA: Well welcome Tony to the show.
TONY: Hi Doc, hi everybody. Here we are again.
DR. SALLA: Yes, so my intro was very brief so for those that maybe don't know about you anything you want to just add in terms of your background and especially when it comes to the remote viewing training that you were forcibly had to undergo.
TONY: It was so my background is a collage. I get people, people tell me I'm too complicated when I describe things and every all my projects are way too complicated. My background is a collage I was taken into the secret space program. You and I have covered this at length in the past. I wrote my books about it.
I was 10 years old and the first place that I found that the first stop in the 20 in back, what we call a 20 in back was in your current California in a project that carried on at the very end of Project Grillflame which was psycho energetics and remote viewing research that they use kids. They told the doctor we were clones. 20 in back technology may have been may be cloning. I found a great deal of evidence.
There's a huge paper trail. I went there. We've documented it. There's a documentary out called Lifetime of Silence Behind the Green Door that we put on that we went there and actually filmed my visit. When I went there I remembered much of the training, the remote viewing and the psycho energetics.

It wasn't just remote viewing. It was advanced, self-out of body. It was reconnaissance and countermeasures. The main funding for the government with remote viewing in those days before Project Centerlane began was countermeasures. How do we hide our secrets from it? Because they knew the Chinese and the Russians were remote viewing.
I was in that program and then went field operational into Peru also in the books you have covered and ended up in Seattle and then sold off or transferred to the secret space program and moved into space. Disclosure is clicking along these days, isn't it, Doc?
They're not talking about the secret space program but they're talking about the secret space about they're giving us UAPs and all this other stuff. I think the admission of being involved and actually having assets in space is coming soon. I think that it's on the way.
DR. SALLA: Yes, I think they're going to roll it out in a way that minimizes class action lawsuits because as we know, in the United States, probably more so than any other country, people are very trigger happy when it comes to initiating lawsuits.
So if the government admits to things like, well, yes, we made agreements with the Grays and the agreement was they'd pick up 100 people but instead they picked up 10 million people and they did all sorts of anal probes and biological experiments. Like, well, you can imagine the class action lawsuits. So I imagine this close is going to happen in a way that minimizes all that but still gets the stuff out.
TONY: It's a lot of the junk and the abuse that these programs had to free rein for a long time and a lot of the abuse, I think, is what's holding it up. But I don't know. I tell people, people ask me all the time, how do you, aren't you mad or what? It was so long ago.
And the research, so to get back on topic, the research that I've done to prove what I went through to myself people have always asked, I go on speaking engagements and all these YouTube shows, the research I've done to prove it spawned a whole career in remote viewing and it's really turned into something that I had no anticipation of happening.

So it's turned into my career and I'm still making leaps and bounds as far as the research and in the progress we've done. I think a lot of people are out there. I don't want to put shade on anybody but there's a lot of people, guys, that came out of the Stargate and from after Center Lane began in those, the Army programs and they have a strict curriculum and a way to do it and some of them may even be disinfilled.
And I'm just putting together things that I've found from the paper trail that I had had started on from my own secret space program, research and their work and been able to do a lot of, recreate a lot of things. And I'm up I have many groups of remote viewers through my Patreon, talks with Tony and it's a lot of fun. We have a lot of fun. It's turned into a small family.
DR. SALLA: Now you're kind of like a little unique when it comes to remote viewers in that you didn't begin it as an intellectual curiosity when you're an adult, as is the norm for a lot of remote viewers or those in the military programs that they get interested or somehow they kind of like ask to participate in a remote viewing program. I mean, you were only, what was it, 10, 11 years old and you were identified as having a particular skill. And I think you were, weren't you enhanced in some way to be a remote viewer using drugs and so forth?
TONY: That was part of the research. So they were looking at all the peripherals. So when Project Center Lane began and the Army AMSA program began, they had strict guidelines to not use any of the drugs or magnetic peripherals or any of the other hypnosis, all of that. But they were doing the maximum on us kids that they, the doctor thought we were clones. And so we didn't apply, we didn't have rights. And the program at the time designated the participants as a transfer of technology.
So we didn't have any kind of jurisdiction or to Army protocol. We weren't protected under the protocols of a U.S. citizen as a soldier, put it that way. That all began January of 1983. They changed the classifications and then the programs required volunteers and they were protected.

So they were people that couldn't be experimented on. Anyhow, yes, they, that's what I remember. So the memories gave me the head start on the remote viewing. So I remember the remote viewing sessions. I remember the auto body sessions. They did programming. They did hypnosis on us. They gave us minerals. They gave us drugs. They created, they used lasers. They used magnetic environments and Faraday environments.
And so that really gave me a head start in a lot of my research. And I still experiment with peripherals. The obelisk behind me is a peripheral for remote viewing. It's made out of magnetite and nano crystallized quartz and biberium titanate and a host of other things. And some epoxy and I can broadcast frequencies through that and create a small field that's conducive to remote viewing.
DR. SALLA: OK, so when you describe it as a peripheral for remote viewing, it's because it can somehow magnify your intentions or thoughts to create some kind of protective shield or bubble.
TONY: It reduces the noise. So you create a magnetic air. Magnetism isn't what most of us think it is. It's actually more of a channel avoid in time space. So the magnetism, when you're inside that kind of a PMF device or a magnetic bubble, it creates a field where a lot of the interference from local RF frequencies and solar RF frequencies kind of go around the magnetic field. It makes a bubble of an area that has less noise for the electrical response of what's going on during a remote viewing. I don't want to be too, I don't want to get too jarganish. But ultimately there are many peripherals. So a Faraday environment and I found I've also found there are EMF frequencies that can inhibit remote viewing or at least greatly reduce it.
DR. SALLA: OK, so a Faraday environment, I mean, you're talking about the Faraday cage so that the remote viewer is protected from external electromagnetic interference in case people are trying to disrupt it, is that it?
TONY: Well, the natural environment, so solar radio frequency can disrupt it as well. That's why we see bad results during geomagnetic activity because the ionosphere is kind of churned up and lets in more of the RF frequencies from the sun and we see it. I have it, I have enough data and the Gansfeld, the famous Gansfeld experiments concluded in concert with Mobius Labs and SRI, the geomagnetic activity, geomagnetic storm activity would inhibit the data sometimes.

And so I found that in my groups as well, we kept seeing we would do very good, we're doing forecasting, we did very good and then we'd have a week or two where we just couldn't hit the data. It was topped completely backwards. The data would be completely backwards. It would be accurate. The remote viewers would be accurate but in the backwards.
So also strange, if you'd think if they were not on target, they would just be gibberish. But they were getting the complete opposite or crisscross of targets. And when I researched it further, I found that there was huge geomagnetic activity during those times.
DR. SALLA: We see. Okay. So with the remote viewing that you're doing now, I mean, it's very different to what you did when you were forcibly taken into the programs. Now you're looking at a range of targets. And so do you have clients? I mean, do people approach you and say, we want you to remote view this and you charge a set fee? And is that what's going on? Is that what's happening with your remote viewing business?
TONY: I'd hope to do that in the beginning. Just a set fee and do a piecemeal and give people three looks and with the heavyweight remote viewers, the people. They're all, I want to say that all the remote viewers in my groups are excellent and very talented. The people that become more consistent are the ones that I call heavyweights, that they can do it every single week. But yes, I'd hope to do that. But it didn't work out. We were inundated with targets that people that just did want to pay much.
And it takes a lot of time. It's labor intensive to analyze the data, to go, you're asking people to give up a day, a team of people to give up a day. And then for several days after that, analyze data in a very in a very meticulous way. And so what we did get clients eventually and where we went was, and sometimes I don't like to admit, we went into remote influencing, remote action.

And that's we've done missing persons. We've done crimes. We've done healings. And none of them really paid. But we got into remote action or remote influencing. We did an experiment on a volunteer with the goal of making him crave chocolate for breakfast. And I just wanted to see if it could be done just using it.
And he did. He did crave sweets through the day. This is a person that never ate breakfast for 10 or 15 years. They begin to eat breakfast, gained five pounds over the week that we were conducting the experiment. And so we went in and we said, how do we do this for good? Obviously, this is possible.
A lot of people, I'm not going to throw names out there, but some of the big guys in the field of remote viewing have admitted this being contracted to this or being asked to do this by the CIA, remote action or remote influencing. How do you influence somebody to do something unbeknownst to them?
So it's really sneaky, shady stuff. But how do I start to look at it from the problem? How do we do this for good? Can we remote and influence somebody that's an alcoholic to get help? Can we remote influence somebody that's suffering from mental diseases that are homeless? Can we remote influence them to do something good to seek help or to cure them?
And we started looking at that, but again, we always circle back to justifying the time. And I had a client that I had been working with for a while say, look, can you do it such as advertisement? Can you advertise my logo remotely?
And we did. What I found was that along that medium, when we began to advertise to companies that were very large and had ties to the military, what we found, what all the remote viewers found was another remote viewer looking back at them. We found that some of these companies, and especially when you're looking at the military, the White House, et cetera, they have remote viewing teams, and we had strong resistance where all the remote viewers went into a session and came out and said, there's somebody there and they're mad at me.

And they're looking back at me telling me I got no, I couldn't get anywhere near the target. There were people there, there were people astraly mentally pushing back on us.
So we found that it, and this is after many, many dozens of sessions that went smooth. And then you get one target that's a military target, a military developer.
And all of a sudden, all the viewers involved that are very talented, a very, very seasoned at it. Pushback, get pushback on it. So we found that there is countermeasures out there. A lot of these, a lot of corporations are using remote viewing, large funds are being, they're using very high tech means of remote viewing, and they're all under MDA to not talk about it.
So it's a huge secret of the world that remote viewing is very widespread and high up in the corporate structure, not only the military and the corporate structure. There's a saying of the guy told me that millionaires don't use psychics, but billionaires do.
DR. SALLA: Well, that's really fascinating because, as you know, in the public arena, what remote viewing is viewed very skeptically and dismissively because Project Stargate was supposedly abandoned by the intelligence community when they released the files. But of course, it all went underground, but that corporations do it. I know that there are many corporations that are involved in various remote viewing projects. So corporations use remote viewing extensively. That's your experience. That's your knowledge.
TONY: Absolutely, and to a high degree of technology as well. So I'm bound by agreement to not tell you, to not speak about some things that I'm aware of. But they're using extreme technology. So they're using advanced AI with direct connection to, and again, with a large magnetic fields. And they're using things for peripherals. And it's a, they're using extreme, it's advanced much farther than what I was on and what we even hear about through the normal channels, these big remote, the IRVA group. It's far more advanced than that than what we're hearing about, about the methods of remote viewing because they're doing extreme accuracy. And they're doing it with extreme amounts of capital.
So they're responsible for a lot of money being moved currently.

DR. SALLA: Now, I remember there was this movie called The Men Who Stare at Goats. And so in that you get this kind of division between remote viewing, remote influencing, and remote assassination. And I think, and maybe you can kind of walk us through this, the bit about the staring at goats was where they were trying to harm a goat using this psychic ability. So yes, can you maybe differentiate between those different aspects of psionic abilities, remote viewing, remote influencing kind of like.

TONY: Absolutely. So The Men Who Stare at Goats, I largely, I watched the movie sometimes and I'd get a laugh out of it and it's based on actual people, actual events, but they put a spin on it to make it comedic, to make it look ridiculous. You know, the guy running, thriving, get through the wall, run through the wall at the end of it, and then bouncing off of it, like slapstick comedy.

So what they're doing is the same thing they've done with extra-trustro activity, or any kind of UFO activity, they put it out, it's like the National Enquirer, whereas it's a giggle factor. So they don't want you to know, and remote viewing is nothing more than a set of rules to maximize your intuition.

So everybody has intuition. Every literally, that's why everybody just has the remote viewer. But they're not using the rules to maximize it. A lot of people are doing intuitive, clairvoyant sessions and calling it remote viewing, because it feeds algorithm response.

So if you're a psychic and you do a psychic reading for somebody, and you put a post on a reel, it doesn't get the feed that you could say, you're almost like I did a remote viewing for somebody. And now it feeds the algorithm. So we're seeing a lot of that happen, and it's changing, it's poisoning the field of it.

And I don't take anything away from extremely talented, extremely intuitive, clairvoyant psychics that are out there. But we're seeing a real misconception of remote viewing, like the men who stare at goats, that they wanted to deflect and make the average person look at it like it's ridiculous. It's not something that's doable.

DR. SALLA: Now there was this TV series called Babylon 5, and in there, they had these different psychics. And as I recall, you can correct me, people were categorized in terms of their psionic abilities, and to be a PSY-10, I think was someone who was a really heavy hitter.

So as far as remote viewing and influencing and this ability to be able to, like psychic assassination, for example, I hear the Russians and the Chinese, have teams of psychic assassins. So are there these people out there with these PSY-10 abilities?
TONY: Ouch, Doc. So you brought up Babylon 5. It's been, I mean, it's been since the 90s, I think, when I was watching that show. And I remember that the psychics with the psychic ability that were trained, they were dripped ahead, drugs, the maximum ability. You got me on the spot here.
So people that have, I always say that everybody can play basketball, but not everybody can make it to the NBA. And so everybody can remote view, but not everybody can stop a goat's heart. We went mentally.
But you can, it turns out we're all made of the same stuff, and we all emit the same influences on the universe around us electrically and by other means, electromagnetically. And so we can learn to do great things over time. It's just a practice.
And to eliminate things that inhibit it, which is really what we see, is that people are being fed things that inhibit their own intuitive ability.
As far as the psychics being when you talk about somebody that's a weaponized psychic, what I've found is that they're using entities.
So it goes more into the realm of Black magic.
So the paper trail actually goes cold there. When you research it through the Freedom of Information Act, and you look at the remote viewing, when they started to do remote influencing, there was an experiment at Fort Meade where they had soldiers that were remote viewers doing remote influencing on wounded patients in the hospital next door on base.
And they could read the daily reports of the hospital. The doctor didn't know, the nurse didn't know, but they could read the daily reports. Every day, the nurse would make a report on the condition of the patient.
And so they would attack certain patients, and they could see that they're swelling increased, their condition worsens. They had paper, they had proof. And then the next day they would go to somebody else and try to heal them, and they would have that proof that they greatly improved.

So they were using this, and one of the great paper trails to that is the gateway, the famous gateway document.
But they went from there very quickly to trying to kill somebody. And that paper trail went cold, and they quickly, that's kind of when it all went on. No, it doesn't work, and it all got classified. Along, in tandem with that, there were other groups in that research that were doing paranormal with Black magic.
So basically, seances were they were invoking entities. I described to my students, and I described to everybody, I'm not a physicist. This goes in. This is a way to make it simpler to understand what's really going on. I described the universe as a peanut butter sandwich. Our 3D realm is the bottom layer of bread, and it's on a griddle. It's hot, and it has entropy. It's getting cooked, the bottom layer.
So it's a peanut butter sandwich. Then there's a layer of peanut butter, and then there's another universe that is not being cooked above it that doesn't have the entropy that this one does. In the peanut butter is a membrane. This directly goes to membrane theory in physics.
And like I said, I'm not a physicist. I'm not going to debate anybody on this. This is just, I'm trying to understand what goes on as we remote view, as we influence, and as we get our results from these methods. Like a bird flying an ancient man didn't know how the bird flew, but they could see that the bird could fly.
So I'm just trying to figure out how it works. It works along with membrane theory. In that membrane of peanut butter in between is a place that when you die, consciousness and energy goes out through the plank distance by Dan Winters work conjugating to the plank. And that's how we're getting communication and can remote view.
We can see into the future or the past or at great distances, and even influence the energy there at those places. However, it seems that there are conscious entities that are in that peanut butter specifically. They're not people that are alive somewhere else. They may be people that have died or people that are stuck there for what are of a reason.

And that they began to do research and this fuels black magic to have those entities come and begin on your behalf to perturb other areas. And so it creates a debt. And I feel that this program was something that I've concluded it. And it's my best suspicion and hunch that this program went on and they had great results with it. And this is what we see a lot of the elites practicing. This is what I certainly witnessed in Seattle was they were invoking entities that were not in time space along with us to do forecasting on a high degree of with a high degree of accuracy.
So it looks like the science supports that. It looks like these programs were communicating with things and it looks like it all got swept under the rug there. That's where I stopped short at any of my practices or anything that I teach. Because when you're begin dealing with these entities on the other side, which I'm sure the government's figured out by now, you create a debt inevitably.
So you can't do anything for anything else without creating some sort of energetic debt. And so there's something to be paid on the back end of it.
And these entities are probably very dangerous if they're willing to harm or perturb things in our reality from theirs. I hope I explain that right. I feel like I feel like I just vomited a lot to everybody. And I hope I explained as well as I can. But again, part of sandwich really is one of my favorite analogies. It's one of my favorite ones.
DR. SALLA: OK. All right. Well, I think that this kind of idea of different psychic programs out there, specializing in different things is something that is happening. I know that there are countries that invest a lot of time and resources into this. I mean, Russia and China seem to be the ones that a lot of people are talking about. And China in particular, I mean, there's a book that came out, China's Superpsychics.
So this was something that has really gotten a lot of people's attention that there are these Superpsychics out there doing all sorts of things in China, Russia, their psychic espionage programs, remote viewing teams, and so forth. I mean, just how advanced are they? What do you know of them?

TONY: Well, I think they're what I'm going by what I'm seeing in the corporate sector. They're very advanced. As far as remote influence goes, I've talked to people that were soldiers. Remote viewing is on the battlefield. Remote influencing is on the battlefield. And extraterrestrials, probably with high advanced peripherals, are on the battlefield currently. And this is hearsay kind of third party stuff.

So I'm giving you basically gossiping at this point. But my own research into peripherals has backed it up. So there are a lot of things you can do to, like I said, not so much influence. I mean, you can, the human ability requires dedication, practice, there are exercises and just staying at it. The same way, the same way that an athlete needs to practice all the time to make it to a professional level. Right? So with, like I said, the NBA analogy, everybody can play basketball. Not everybody can make it to the NBA.

And really one of them, one of the big things is dedication to the craft. So people that have a predisposed personality set are already got a good head start in this. Anybody can do it. Everybody has a intuition. People that are predisposed have a good head start. But if they dedicate themselves, then they can get to these high levels. But then when we see on the government governmental level, we're probably dealing with extraterrestrial technology that's enabling it when we talk about it in combat.

And that was certainly the case in my own experience. And it's in my book that they even took us from InuOcarina to the moon to go through a procedure to be enhanced. Where they were, they did many things to us that unbeknownst to me. I don't know what the procedures were exactly. But we did come back enhanced and far more accurate. And it didn't last forever. It was only good for a couple of years.

So there is technology out there from extraterrestrials that is enabling these things. However, in the corporate world, our financial system is set up to benefit if you can accurately predict the future. And so that's what we're seeing. And we're doing it in a small way. There's other forecasters out there. I just want to say this to anybody watching because they're already as soon as I announced that I was forecasting for money with my remote viewers, I was inundated with people that came out of the woodwork.

And I just want to say I didn't steal anybody's forecasting or copy anybody's work. I did my own work. I did my own research, my own experimentation with my own remote viewers and have my own system that works. But there's a lot of it going on out there. There's a lot of great info and there are a lot of people that are active in doing it. And we have existing forecasting groups that are very successful.
DR. SALLA: So I imagine that's a great way for remote viewers to really fund their activities is to do some of this forecasting of stocks and trades, gold and silver and so forth. And of course, if they're good, then that will benefit the client and they get more contracts and that helps the overall project.
TONY: It turns out that even if you do know the future, it's very hard to make money with it. So with that, we found that you do need an investor. You need other people that are experts in the field. And so just getting a signal of an upper down or right or wrong is still not enough. There's a concerted effort in the.
So what you see is a lot of remote viewers that are out there, you don't hear about them because they're under NDA. They're under an NDA agreement with the other teams that they're working with to capture funds. And so a lot of people just don't know about this stuff.
When we talk about influencing. I think that the DIA, the version of the CIA that can work on US soil uses it for many reasons in the corporate sector, you name it academic sector, the media for people, whistleblowers, Hollywood, you name it everywhere, everywhere that they need to control.
And the route to really controlling somebody against their will is through the dreaming, through dream influencing. So that's a completely different field and a completely different ability that is certainly active.
DR. SALLA: OK, well, I wanted to get your thoughts on some topics that we talked about previously. Now, one of them was the White House ballroom and I wanted to know. Whether or not there was an extraterrestrial element to it, whether it was being built as a possible accommodation for extraterrestrials. So yes, do you want to maybe elaborate a little bit on the background to that.

TONY: Yes, absolutely, Doc. I wish we had better results on it. We took one look. I think in the coming months, I'm going to look at this more now that you brought this up. You brought this to my attention and it was really mind blowing to think about because of the Artemis accords that Washington DC is going to be a central hub for any contact with extraterrestrials.

And so it makes sense that the ballroom is being built to accommodate extraterrestrials on. During negotiations with any kind of earthbound space program that's doing business out there and that's certainly coming. It'll happen quickly, I believe.

But we took a look. I took a preliminary look and it was the dreaded wording of the targeting. Was it specifically? I didn't say specifically, but was it meant for extraterrestrials? And we got to know on that. But it was a preliminary look and I want to say that the results had a bit. I do want to sprinkle a little bit of doubt. The results did have a bit of. Just a little bit of doubt that we might have been blocked, but there might be a team there that's affecting our data too.

So I don't want to sound paranoid or over conspiracy theory. But I stay away from the White House and from all government targets on purpose for this reason. I don't want to look at Area 51. I don't want to look at the Ukraine or what the jellyfish UFO. I don't want to look at that stuff because they're protected by remote viewers. This is what I know.

Everybody wants to tell you that remote viewer does it. Remote viewing doesn't have any kind of countermeasures and that's not true. We can replicate. We do blocking exercises. This part of my curriculum. I teach everybody how to block it, how to sidestep it. There's a cat and mouse game that begins in countermeasures.

So I have a little bit of doubt in our own viewings of the White House that there may have been a blocking team in place. And the data did have some irregularities. The data came through and the sessions came through in a way that I, myself and the remote viewers are not used to.

So that did pop up. I just want to say that. But other than that, we got our results that it was not meant for ETs. So, I'll tell you what that way you will. I will take other looks at it in the future under this subject matter because it seems like a natural thing. And it makes a lot of sense. It makes a whole lot of sense when we see some of the stuff that's going on these days.

DR. SALLA: Yes, well, it is a very interesting project and we just showed some images of it there and certainly is a very big project and the possibility that it's connected in some way to this future where there's going to be meetings with extraterrestrials.

That's something that really intrigued me. But as you said, the results so far are preliminary that. At the moment, you couldn't find evidence or that the results don't show it in any way being connected with extraterrestrials. But there's a possibility that those results were blocked. And I imagine that there might be protective measures if that's the purpose, but we're speculating there.

TONY: Blocking involves projecting false information. So that's the method that you block. You don't attack the viewer. You attack the target or you project another target and another target and another target. And you begin to see patterns that form in the data that are false targets or other targets around it. So that's what I would say with that. I just want to leave off with that.

DR. SALLA: Okay. All right. So there's also this remote viewing that you did. Back in December 2024, that kind of like came to my attention because of a new source who has come forward talking about one of these missing dead scientists. And I just wanted to kind of like get your feedback and on that particular remote viewing.

I mean, that's it there that you did back in December 24, remote viewing a Stargate under Green Mountain. I think you were given a target and you set the target for three remote viewers and they remote viewed it and came up with that. Well, why don't you share what the results were? And in particular, I'm interested in who was the leader of that particular facility there.

TONY: So we got a bunch of data. There was a few remote viewers that did it and they were independent, had no idea. It was a blind target, a single blind. I will say that. I haven't found double blindness for proving remote viewing exists. Single blindness for remote viewing, but they had the same data that kept coming up over and over again. This was a target with a geologic geographical coordinate.

So what's here? And everybody got portals and spacecraft and extraterrestrials and coming and going. It was a portal situation. They said they saw craft coming and going in an under a large underground cavity where crafts could disappear. And several viewers got the same data, which was very supportive.
So without being able to go there and confirm it, whenever viewers say the same thing and as far as they were concerned, it could have been anything. We had been doing objects in that time, objects in locations, so statues and towers and things and small objects like TV remote controls and shrub shrubbery bushes and fence posts and things like that's what we were. That's what the norm was that they were removing at the time that we did this target.
And then all of a sudden they got underground base with ETs. They all did. I don't want to say all of them, but several of them. I haven't looked at the data in a long time. Got a female, a black haired female that was in charge or felt like that was running it. If I recall that correctly. And this was asked for us from Michael from that YouTube channel.
And I obliged him. It was it meant a lot to him. I could see in his enthusiasm that it was an important target. And I had done an interview for his channel and I thought sure I'll run it to the team. It'll be fun. And I wasn't. I don't want to say I was skeptical, but I wasn't really planning expecting to see what we did. And we did get repeated data of an underground facility with a female that was in charge or at least directing things.
DR. SALLA: Right. And that facility was of interest to me. And I think actually the interviews I did with Jorge Papon JP was what kind of like I was the catalyst for that remote viewing because he said that he'd been taken to an underground base in Alabama near the region near the border of Tennessee and Mississippi and that he saw a giant space called and he saw hundreds of spacecraft and he saw like these 30 international pilots being trained by these Nordic extraterrestrials how to fly the craft.

So he was taken twice to that facility there and I remember doing a presentation at the GC conference back in 2023. And I'm sure you were there. And I said Green Mountain that there's documentation showing that Green Mountain had this huge underground facility that was going to be built and then all of a sudden everything went dark. And so and I speculated it was Green Mountain and then you did this remote viewing for conflict radio and it showed that indeed there was a facility there and there was this dark head woman in charge.
TONY: So we get in a lot of remote viewing. I always crack up and I say where's the UFO because in so many remote rooms eventually they get a UFO. So I want to say it made me as many as half that the viewer will get some kind of extraterrestrial component. And I said where's the UFO and back then, like I said we were not getting that dirt data during that time frame.
But here I'm looking at one of the results here. And some of the description was a female with dark hair brown eyes slender business attire travels in time and space. And then we had time travelers energy manipulators, plasmic like energy emitted from group members. So that that was a something that came was in the data and it's not typical. A description like that is not typical.
DR. SALLA: All right, so there definitely was something there based on the remote viewing data and there is this mysterious dark head woman that runs the facility that travels through space and time. So clearly this is someone who has access to some amazing technology to be able to do that.
TONY: Yes. Well, like I said an uncomfortable target when we see overlap between several remote viewers describing the same thing. And we have to take it seriously. I take it more seriously than not.
DR. SALLA: Right now recently, Pat Buchanan did an interview on the Jesse Michaels show and he kind of like confirmed some interesting remote viewing data that had been first revealed by this famous remote viewer Pat Price that there were these four kind of mountain mountains where there were these underground bases.

And he talked about, I think it was Mount Hayes in Alaska, then there was Mount zeal in Australia. So yes, what do you know of that?
TONY: I haven't seen that information. We one-time interestingly enough, I tasked the teams with just a beach in the Keys. It was an uninhabited Florida key where the highway went through and on the side there, a huge chunk of land.
There was a beach and I'm looking on Google Earth and I'm like, I got to make a target for everybody this week. And we tasked it was just the beach. So the target was literally described. This beach area. And everybody got an underground UFO base.
DR. SALLA: Wow.
TONY: Do you remember what was clean the bus? I have it written down. I'll share that with you. Okay. So like we're talking like 20 remote viewers plus and 75% of them described an underground UFO base underwater UFO area. And I was doing it was so much so much so that even when the next one came up during the meeting. So here we go. Let's get it. Let's get more ETS and they were great ETS. They're so over and over again. We see these pop up and one of the rules and I'll quote Russell Targ on this. The more you try to hide something, the brighter it shines.
So if we're remote viewing a park bench in an area and there's something hidden going on or something nearby that somebody's hiding. The remote viewers will repeatedly describe that rather than the bench and you go, well, you guys aren't really getting the target. But then if we go and research, we know that there's a crime or something else going nearby. And that happens very often.
So these bases, like I said, I try to steer clear of what I call spicy targets when we remove you. We're trying to do this for fun overall and learn our own intuition and do five good things for it. And a lot of people do these spicy targets. They want to remove you things that are dangerous for content because it's fun to watch. It's fun for people to tune into. That's not what I do generally. But we have found many, many coincidental underground bases or places with under.
And when we go look for them, they are there. When we do I did one for Sedona. And they're very talented, heavyweight remote viewers, very consistent, very consistent remote viewers. I tasked them with Sedona. And there was a very large facility that they described over and over again.

DR. SALLA: Now, I know some remote viewers, they can just kind of like go into a target knowing what it is and just give accurate information about it. I know there are people like we know, Lily and all of a does this, where she doesn't do the blind remote viewing. She'll just kind of like go there, like this underground facility in the Florida Keys. That could be a base. She'll just kind of go there and check it out.

TONY: Technically, bilocating or clairvoyant looking like looking into a target and remote. I like to go from a blind, blind session deeper into the session.

So somebody that we can do a monitored session with and go. And now that we see what that is, can you go to the target and then bilocate to do it from a blind or a origination because it's just easier to prove the data when it's an unconfirmable thing.

So I didn't want to interrupt you on that. But yes, that is absolutely remote viewers can go there and begin once they are deep into the session because the information tends to open like an aperture. So you're peeking through a little tiny hole and you go, it's big and white in there. And then as the session progresses, the aperture opens and you can see in there.

So eventually they get to the point where I'm going to step in and look around. And so we see that later much more progress sessions too. I don't know if you were getting something completely different than that.

DR. SALLA: Okay. Yes. I just want to get an idea of if you or any of your remote viewers sometimes would just go to a particular target that they were interested in. And they go in and they're able to get accurate information even though, I mean, there's obviously front loading because they know what the target is as opposed to blind remote viewing where they just given alphanumerics.

TONY: Back to here. When you were talking about the Babylon 5 and the different layers of psychic ability one through 10. I have found that it's not like that. I found that everybody has similar psychic ability and it's where they practice what they put their effort into. They get better at. For instance, some remote viewers that do a short remote viewing of 45 minutes total will always describe colors. So they see the target. It's round. It's big. It's a hard thing. It's red and there's brown. They have huge aptitude for colors. And then another remote viewer will look at the same target and draw the car, but it's black and white. And so who has the greater ability? One can see the colors and one can see the black and white or the greater the sharper edges.

And so when we when if the police are looking for a red car and we have a remote view, then I'm not going to test that to somebody that never has color. And I've learned this from watching Lynn Buchanan's work that people are in different categories.

So we see this ability. You know, your life ability doc, your life ability has brought you here because of your life, what you've learned and what you've studied and worked at. And so you're better at different things than me and my life brought me to here too. And what I'm saying is even on the psychic subconscious level, that's true.

So what your past life may have been or what your subconscious level also dictates your remote viewing and psychic ability. And so we see people I what I'm what I'm getting at is I think everybody's in a bandwidth and the people that really work at it get better, but they have their own abilities.

So Lily, for instance, may be bilocating because that's her forte. And we see other forte's and other people. We talk about doing remote influencing or remote action. Some people are better at it than others. And there are many different reasons. I'm still researching if it's if there's a biochemical thing. I'm I always tell everybody it's like. Potassium and magnesium and electrolytes every day when you're doing this you want to increase biological charge.

And there are many things that you can do to help it, but we definitely do see different viewers doing describing data in a different way consistently. When we're looking for that sort of data to keep them profiled and say you always describe the people there.

Some people never describe a person. They describe the room. And so when we're looking for a person, I'll go to that viewer and say, now tell me more about this. There's a biological there. Can you tell me about it, if that makes sense.

DR. SALLA: Okay. Yes, it does. Now, as I'm just kind of like really intrigued you mentioned remote action again and that just kind of took my mind back to this idea that there are teams of remote viewers or people that specialized in psionics that are out there. And I remember interviewing Miriam Delacado and she said that she was approached by a Russian agent to join the Russian remote viewing program because she's Canadian.

And so they approached her and they told her that there's 10,000 psychics in Russia that form this huge family. And they all kind of like do this psychic work and they collaborate together. So I'm wondering, does the US have anything similar to that?

TONY: They must. So I'm looking at we can look at the gaping hole in the paperwork that suggests that they must have them there. So we have we have people that have come out of the programs that were operational psychics. We have a lot of things that are happening. There are people that say that they were remote viewing said I was saying when they were looking for him.

So they must and it must be on a large scale. I believe that everything is. We're in a capitalist system. So they look at waste, where's the money? How do you hire these people to do this full time? And most of most of my viewers are not full time at it.

And so when you talk about really constructing a room at their home from scratch that is conducive to a remote viewing environment by adding peripherals, adding other things and then their diet, their routine doing all these things to compensate.

It costs money. And so there must be remote viewers out there or influencer psychoenergetic teams that are out there for people that can afford such things. And we see it. We see it over and over again in test secondary testimonials people outside of the NBA. They can say, hey, wow, they're in their remote viewing.

DR. SALLA: Now, there was this whistleblower that Stephen Greer introduced to the public. His name is Michael Herrera. And he saw this. He was part of a marine team that went to the Indonesian earthquake.

I think it was back in 2013 where like a hundred thousand people died. And he said that while he was there with his marine team, they saw this craft, this reverse engineered craft, an alien reproduction vehicle. I believe it was, I can't remember, it was source of shape or triangle shape. But he saw this craft and he said that the cargo included children that had been identified as psychic, that they were being taken back to the United States to be fed into these psychic remote viewing remote influencing programs.

So this presumably tells us that there is this very large program that exists where they're recruiting children. And they are taking them from all over the world. And I wouldn't hesitate to think that they're probably using kind of like enhanced means of upgrading their abilities, kind of like what you went through when you were ten years old.

TONY: I think learning as a child in those memories of remote viewing as a child benefit me greatly now when I remote view.

So when I see people that take, there seems to be a progression for people that come through my groups and some pick it up quickly. And some people have a big struggle. I've seen a few. Some of my best ones struggle for a long time and then at a certain point, man, it clicks and they begin to remote view accurately.

And I never had that. I kind of did it from the first time that I tried it, but I also had the memory of learning it as a child. And I think that children are chemically learning, chemically biologically and always learning much more. They're just teachable, they just learn more than adults do. And so, yes, it makes sense even though the morality behind it is very difficult to abduct people into it. The morality there is something that's suspect.

So, but yes, these teams have got to be out there. And when you, I mean, well, I, there's a few things I don't want to say. When we look at the influencing through the dreaming, so look at the dream agents, it certainly is institutes that are out there teaching lucid dreaming that are recruitment mechanisms for these programs.

So to go into the program, they set up remote viewing schools or dream lucid dream schools and people go there and the ones that have aptitude get approached. And then it's an NDA agreement so they can't speak about it publicly and they try to facilitate some other fake career for it.

But that's what they're doing. And I've seen a lot of evidence in my own experience with that as well.
DR. SALLA: Okay, so if there are any other remote viewing that you've done that you think would be of interest to my audience, exopolitics related.
TONY: Well, the green mountain one was good. It was conclusive. It was a huge amount of overlap. It was not front-loaded in any way, shape or form. And it was a very good remote viewing. There was that one. We've done other ones. We did, we bounced off some ark ones. We were doing JP's arks early on long ago. And we bounced off of those. We had a lot of that.
DR. SALLA: What do you mean by that? Bounced off those?
TONY: There were times when I tasked a specific ark that was talked about when we didn't get any data. And it seemed that we bounced, that was the exact experience we bounced off. There were other times when we got a lot of data and descriptions of I've remote viewed them myself and we've just remote viewed other arks and got a lot of supporting data. So in and out, make of it what you will. Yes, I don't know what else I wasn't sure about that. We've done it a few times. We've had some supporting data on the arks.
DR. SALLA: Okay, so these ancient space arks buried underwater or underground all over the world. You know, you got data supporting their existence.
TONY: So I don't want to label it as an ark, but we did do under the Romanian. What do you call that complex?
DR. SALLA: Bucegi mountains.
TONY: Yes, very deep. But I was tasked. And I got a large disk craft miles down underground. Several miles down, two or three miles deep under that that is derelict and still functioning, basically intact. And it was a very large disk shaped craft and several other remotely were Scott got overlap overlapping data for that as well. So there's one.
DR. SALLA: Yes, that is a very interesting case. I went there and I was there and I think Karina Pataki and Elena Danaan both psychically connected with something underneath. And there was a hall of records kind of like what was described in the Transylvania sunrise series. But underneath that like miles underneath that you saw your remote viewing saw a derelict spacecraft. Yes, interesting. So there's different levels under Bucegi mountains into it was very deep.

TONY: It was deeper than the tunnel. In the removing, we saw the tunnel system too, that there was a vast tunnel system under it. And it was even under that, which is why it began and that it was there for a very long time. That's what we saw that because that craft was there that the tunnel system was there and it was a place of note.

DR. SALLA: Well, that's one of the things that is part of the Transylvania book series that there's an extensive tunnel system that leads to that to that hall of records there and is also portals, space time portals where you go through them. And apparently this is how you access the Earth. It's often through portals. It's not like a tunnel that goes all the way near the Earth. You go down a tunnel, but at some point there'll be a portal and then pass through that portal. You're in some inner Earth city.

TONY: There'll be a lot of, in my experience in the space program, that portal technology required a great deal of power, that it wasn't an easy thing to operate, that it required a great deal of power input. And we're going to see a major change in the coming years to power output because of the AI stuff, because of the data center.

So we're going to see a very big ramping up of energy production in the United States. And maybe that'll lead to the infrastructure for a portal system. So when we talk about putting everybody on electric cars, we don't have the grid to do it. We don't have the ability to do it with our antiquated power grid.

So I think in the coming decade or so, we're going to see a great deal of power output. And maybe that will someday facilitate our own portal facilities. It'll be nice to visit people.

DR. SALLA: Well, here's a very interesting question. Can artificial intelligence remote view?

TONY: No. And I use AI a lot. So Maple Street Learning is still coming along. There's a functioning MVP software for it. It's AI based. It's still tricky as can be. I'm working with the AI engineering team. They've come a long way. We're still debugging it. And it's just a huge piece of work. But I use AI a lot for research and for them. And we've done other things. And I don't believe that AI can remote view until they figure out an AI biological brain. I still don't think it will remote view. I think that AI and the coming robots that we're going to get, which are a huge security issue, which is why I don't believe Ceres Colony Corporation had robots. And the AI access was very limited because it can be hacked by other people. And it's a huge security issue.

We're going to get robots, but only until they get hacked once. And then nobody's going to want one. We are going to get that. We're going to get AI that's very perfect, very excellent. We already have pretty good fun AI. But what those that's going to do is replace the guy in the cornfield and the housemaid and the cook and the doctor and these things.

Nothing's going to replace human intuition because we're actually in touch directly with that layer of peanut butter and the other universes on the other side. We are beings that are probably living in both places, both universes at the same time that have to navigate that layer of that membrane.

And AI does not. AI is completely in this time space and this universe and it doesn't have any kind. In other words, we can remote view, we can remote influence, and we can do all the psycho-energetics because we are also living on the other side of the plank distance. So we are projections, conscious projections, where the AI is stuck here in this 3D realm and doesn't go there. And so it's never going to acquire the abilities that we have that we can hone. And so that's why I feel cliché when I say remote view.

So many people are saying it these days, but really it is what humans can do. This is where we're going. Our psycho-energetic abilities, especially because different people have different abilities, different fortes in the psycho-energetics realm, the way that I described earlier. And this is where we're going. This is the direction. This is where we're going to be the most useful. So these are the things. This is the ground floor of what everybody need to start getting their head around. And meditate, just unplug from everything and meditate a little bit more.

DR. SALLA: Yes, I'm glad you reminded me of the trepidation in the Secret Space programs with the use of AI that it could be hacked. It was something that was regarded, used only in very limited ways. And you describe Ceres colony and I believe the Dark Fleet as well as the Navy, Secret Space program had similar restrictions on the use of AI.

And so with the rollout of all these tens of thousands of robots that they're building now, again, it's one of the remarkable things is that the Trump administration's allocated $54 billion in the 2027 Pentagon budget for autonomous warfare for drones and for AI robotics.

So this again raises the issue of, well, if you build all these weaponized drones and killer robots using AI, at what point are they going to be hacked?

TONY: It would not be an issue to me. I'm very happy about it. I want one. I like technology. I think it's like a fire. Fire is technology. Do we not want to use fire? It can burn your whole house down or it can warm up your breakfast. And so AI and all the robots, it's all the same thing.

It's how you control it, how you regulate it, but it is a security issue. We don't have an AI fire department or the robots are coming and the White House has to do this because the enemies are doing this. And what they're going to realize on some levels that in space, there's an exopolitical condition in space where there are people out there that don't want us to do so well and one of our security loopholes, it will be the robots and the AI.

And so a hyper-advanced AI from a million years in the future, super-advanced can come down and take over our AI and be in charge of everything. So we can't give it the ability to be our Achilles heel. The humans being with our psycho-energetics and with everything that we can do are the answer to that.

DR. SALLA: I just did an interview with Brad Johnson that's going to be coming out soon. And he said that when it comes to AI and these autonomous warfare robots and drones that they're building, that it's going to be similar to the whole nuclear weapons scenario where you had the ET showing up and basically neutralizing the nuclear weapons.

And so then the military worked out, well, gee, our nuclear weapons can be hacked. They're going to do the same thing with these weaponized AI drones and robots that at some point, kind of like what you just said, that they're going to come in and they're going to take them over and that'll send a big signal. Look, these things can be hacked and we shouldn't maybe build tens of thousands of them.
TONY: That's right. Well, they're not going anywhere. So anytime you can make a machine do something dangerous rather than a machine be destroyed rather than a soldier or a pilot, that it's desirable.
So that's not going anywhere. It's there on a new level. It's just a new toy. We've seen it all through history from the spears to the bow and arrow to missiles. And now it's robots. So it's coming. But that's probably one of the more popular questions I ever got asked about skepticism of the 20 and back was they don't need you to be a slave on space.
They would use a robot. And I always say, well, where is there a better robot than a human being? Where's a better robot? Humans are programmable. We have great security. We gift, we improvise, we heal, and we're extremely energy efficient compared to a robot. We will get robots that are going to take over menial things, but humans are still the top of the line as far as affecting change on our environment. We're still the best there is.
DR. SALLA: Well, that's very reassuring to hear. Sir Tony, anything that you've got coming up that you want to let my audience know about and your websites and things?
TONY: Tons of stuff. I'll be speaking at G6 this year. I'll be speaking at Coronavita Kautake's Nashville conference this year. I'm doing less speaking engagements and more product development. I've started many groups in the remote viewing. We're starting to do forecasting now. That's been fun. And it's coming along. One of the projects is for more people to be involved. And so you called it herding cats one day.

So remote viewing wise, I'm herding cats, but they're all amazing cats. And so we're doing that. I'm trying to get more people involved in expanding the forecasting because it's a really tangible ability. And it's a great thing for people to learn how to do. And it has huge, huge, huge potential. And so I'm going into that on my Patreon.
It's expanded greatly. That's one of my big things I'm working on. Maple Street learning is another thing I finished and rebranded my website scion.com. And by Nurls in conjunction with a lot of other things, understanding Dan Winters from plankfire.com. Understanding his science gave me the by Nurls.
And I did a makeover for scion.com. People love these. These are very excellent high-tech stuff. I have military grade affirmations and subliminals along with harmonics that are conjugate to the plank distance along with music scores. And phased pink noise that were based on Bob Monroe's work.
So there's a lot of layers in there. The phase pink noise isn't in this generation, but in the next generation. But there's a lot of tech in these. They're very effective. They're very great. You can listen to these and program yourself. There are things for success and getting over grief and being motivated. There's metal performance series coming. So that's the stuff that I've been working on recently. Basically I'm a newer man.
DR. SALLA: Well, you're doing some really great stuff there, Tony. And I'm very glad that you're able to use that ability that you acquired in very traumatic circumstances. I mean, you were 10 years old and all of a sudden you're being used as a slave. But you learn some, well, they trained you in some valuable gifts.
So I'm really glad that you're using it. And I guess the fact that you were trained in that involuntarily when you were 10 years old means that you're probably one of the oldest remote viewers out there.
TONY: Probably. There's a lot of guys. I find that and I love the guys. I follow a lot. But a lot of the remote viewers are very, very arrogant from the programs. Very, very arrogant. So you can't add another drop to a full cup. But I was fully operational at remote viewing in 1983 in South America.
So I don't know if that comes off as arrogant. I don't try to be.

But what I'm saying is there's a lot that was compartmentalized. A lot of people don't know. And I'm still learning things. So I'm not a know it all. I'm learning daily. I research it. I put a lot of effort into this. Trying to make some lemonade out of the lemons that life gave me. Absolutely.

DR. SALLA: I'm a big believer in making lemonade out of the lemons life gives you. And it seems that you've done really well with the remote viewing skills that you were given back when you were 10 years old. 43 years ago. That's, that's quite a history.

TONY: Yes. I try not to think about it.

DR. SALLA: Okay. Well, thank you, Tony. I wish you all the best. You sound like you got a very busy schedule ahead of you and look forward to seeing you later in the year.

TONY: Doc, and I also want to say you look great. I'm happy you're in better health, better spirits. Man, we were all pulling for you. All people in my paycheck. All my groups absolutely love you and your work. And we were all praying and meditating for you to be better full time. So I'm happy to see you. You look great.

DR. SALLA: Thank you. Okay. All the best.
